Appyness Online

Appyness Online is a new online safety and wellbeing education programme coming to the market from Zeeko, the educational Internet Safety experts, this October.

Appyness Online (AO) is an innovative "Education Technology" package which trains teachers to enable Peer to Peer learning of same-age, or younger pupils, the digital citizenship skills they need to be safe online.

Appyness Online uses a 'virtual world' to provide a unique, innovative approach in peer to peer learning and includes a significant element of parental engagement.

The Appyness Online package includes CPD for primary school staff, with lesson plans, teachers' notes, and worksheets that enables children in Year 5 and 6 to become peer-educators to teach younger learners (and their parents / carers) about internet safety and appropriate use. The peer educators, under teacher supervision, use a unique 'virtual world', to provide information, moral dilemmas for discussion and reflection opportunities to develop knowledge, internet safety skills and values clarification.

Within each lesson Zeeko encourage the development of critical thinking and emotional intelligence, particularly through group work and peer-to-peer learning. Pupils receive a certificate in internet safety training on completion.

Appyness Online addresses five major areas of internet safety: Self-Esteem; Digital Footprint: Screen-time; Fake Friends and Real Friends Online and Cyberbullying.

Appyness Online has been mapped against 'Education for a Connected World' and contributes to the expectations of publications like the Government responses to the Internet Safety Strategy Green Paper; the consultation on transforming children and young People's mental-health provision; KCSIE Guidance (2018) and the DfE Guidance on Relationships Education & Health Education.
